'GOING MY WAY?': Looking for a gift that is a little different for that special someone? How about a two-headed turtle? Bud Scholoffman, owner of a pet store in Golden, Colo., has one. The 2-month-old turtle is of the Pseudemys scripta elegans variety—a "red-eared" turtle. Sometimes they enjoy their meals together and other times one will eat while the other rests or sleeps. Scholoffman isn't quite sure whether or not he wants to sell it . . . or them. (AP Wirephoto)

Army Denies Spying On Illinois Officials

Snooping Probe Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says a preliminary investigation has found no truth to charges the U.S. military spied on an Illinois senator, congressman and former governor.

"I can state that neither Sen. Stevenson, Rep. Mikva, nor former Gov. Kerner are or ever have been the subject of military intelligence activities or investigations related to political activities," Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor said in a statement Thursday.

CHARGES MADE

Resor replied to charges raised a day earlier by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who quoted a former Army agent as saying Army intelligence personnel had collected data on

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, former Gov. Otto Kerner, now a federal judge, and Rep. Abner Mikva.

The allegations, Resor said, "are without foundation in fact." He pledged the Army's cooperation in Ervin's probe of the former agent's story.

Resor said the agent's statement that several other Illinois citizens—including civil, church, education and political leaders—were spied on will be investigated separately. The investigation is continuing in the case of the three Democratic officials, he said.

Ervin quoted the former agent as saying the military intelligence unit at one time was spying on every person in Illinois who expressed disagreement with U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia or who openly opposed Nixon administration domestic policies.

There has been no indication what use, if any, was made of information allegedly gathered by the agents.

After Ervin issued the report of the former agent's statement, the White House released a statement opposing domestic spying and said, "It will not be done under this administration."

Asked whether military personnel actually are engaged in spying on citizens, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler pointed to a statement by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird: "It is not going on in any way at this time."

However, The Associated Press has obtained documents outlining Air Force and Navy requirements for investigation and reporting on "civil disturbances and dissident or subversive activities."

GUIDELINES RESCINDED

Public Funds Frozen For Private Schools

LANSING — Public schools across Michigan were being instructed today not to discontinue auxiliary services and shared time programs to non-public school students until the Michigan Supreme court rules—probably in January—on the anti-parochial constitutional amendment.

The high court yesterday issued an order postponing the effective date of the amendment adopted at the Nov. 3 election. It was to go into effect Saturday.

The court ordered implementation of the amendment stayed until it has time to rule on the precise effects of the amendment, or to issue a further order.

The Supreme Court said Thursday it would hear oral arguments on the case on Jan. 5. It asked all involved parties to submit written briefs by Dec. 30.

It enjoined the state superintendent of public instruction from immediately disbursing any of the $22 million granted for private schools by the legislature earlier this year.

The court specifically told the state board of education not to discontinue or "otherwise interfere with" shared-time or dual-enrollment programs, auxiliary services, the disbursement of federal education funds, private court money to private schools and institutions, or any tax exemptions now enjoyed by non-public schools.

These five points are at issue in a Traverse City board of education case upon which Gov. William Milliken and Atty. General Frank Kelley asked the court to rule.

At the same time, the Supreme Court said it would reconsider the earlier state appeals court decision which ruled that the amendment proposal should go on the Nov. 3 election ballot. The Appeals court had overturned a ruling by Kelley that the petitions were improperly drawn and should not result in a ballot question.

SENDING INSTRUCTIONS

Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of public instruction, said instructions would be sent today to local school districts across the state in line with the Supreme Court's order of yesterday.

In view of the court's action, Porter said that a set of guidelines that the state board of education had prepared to guide local districts in the absence of RUSSIAN HOME: Letter in Russian complaining about living conditions and this photograph were thrust into the hands of John Liskey of St. Joseph while he was on a study tour of Russia and other European nations.

Letter, Picture Tell Russian Hardships

Handed To SJ Student

By DICK DERRICK
SJ City Editor

John Liskey of St. Joseph, a junior at Michigan State University, was standing in a crowd of people in Moscow last summer when a man brushed by and thrust a letter into his hand.

The man uttered the word: "take" and disappeared but translation of the letter gives a rare insight into Russian living conditions.

The letter, translated by two Russian-born members of the MSU Russian department, complaints of the living conditions which the writer apparently has to endure.

Liskey was on a study tour of Europe last Sept. 11-27 sponsored by the National Urban Coalition. He is studying urban sociology at Michigan State and interested in urban development and problems.

Last spring the Twin City Rotary club presented him with a citation for his work in organizing a paint project for unemployed young men. The project gave employment to seven young men who in the process painted and repaired seven Benton Harbor homes.

Liskey was in Europe about the same time his father, Roy Liskey, a prominent St. Joseph insurance broker, was on a vacation business trip in Germany. The paths of the two Liskeys did not pass however.

MOSCOW EXHIBITION

The younger Liskey was in a Russian economic exhibition in Moscow and says the incident happened so quickly he barely got a chance to see the man.

The letter, according to the translators, contained many errors in grammar and they concluded that the writer was somewhat illiterate.

The letter was attached to a photograph.

The letter as translated: "On this photograph you see a little house. Don't think that it stands in a forest, or in a God forsaken farming locality. This little house stands in Riga, Latvian, USSR."

"Well here it's been 11 years that they've been promising to tear down this little house. But they can't seem to get around to it, and the house is in such a condition that it's impossible to live in it. The dampness and cold have robbed me and my four-year-old child of half our health."

"I have petitioned various institutions for help with lodging, but - apart from written answers I have received nothing, and if they did promise me anything then it was no better than this miserable little house."

LITTLE IN RETURN

"In this country they don't trouble themselves too much about the working men, all they care about is taking as much as possible from him and giving him as little as possible in return. If at least one responsible official had come to look whether it is possible to live under these conditions or not, but no, they consider it easier to get rid of you in writing, and as for paper, it can take anything. And it is painful to know that from early childhood on, my wife and I were both orphans, our fathers perished at the front during the revolution, and if at least they would help us because of that, but no."

If this letter and photograph reaches the destination I want to, to publish it in your newspaper, let your readers see how and under what conditions I live. In actual fact this is not a house, it was a tool shed until 1949. Now it is considered a private home.

"It is 12½ square meters. Apart from a stove there is nothing in it."

The letter was dated Sept. 16. (See back page, sec. 1, col. 6)

Cong Chiefs Call For Big Tet Push

1968 Offensive Is Recalled

HONG KONG (AP) — The Viet Cong military command called on its forces today to emulate the "great and glorious successes" of the 1968 Tet offensive, the biggest Communist offensive of the Vietnam war. There was speculation that the broadcast presaged another major Communist effort during the Tet festival of the lunar new year, at the end of January.

The statement, broadcast to Viet Cong military and political units, came only four days after the Viet Cong command called in another broadcast for new and intensified attacks in South Vietnam. That appeal was followed almost immediately by a series of terrorist attacks against American and South Vietnamese installations.

Today's broadcast called the 1968 offensive "a great example and lesson," adding: "That 100-day offensive and uprising, Jan. 31 to May 11, accomplished great victories and greatly advanced the just and patriotic battle to liberate our people and our country from the U.S. imperialist aggressors" and the Saigon government.

"Our great victories in 1968," the broadcast said, "should be a source of emulation in the struggle against the U.S. imperialists."

It said the achievements of the 1968 offensive "far surpassed those in all of 1966 and 1967 combined" and inflicted deadly blows on the Saigon puppets, . . . and created favorable and solid prospects for the defeat of the U.S. imperialists."

How To Change Tears In Kids' Eyes To Stars

Herald-Press Good Fellow headquarters is where the action is today with contributions literally pouring in to set up a tidal wave that will wash away the tears of Christmas.

Now wait a minute! "A tidal wave?"

Would you believe a "happy hurricane?"

Frankly — no.

Would you settle for a shower of stars?

Stars will be shining in the eyes of many youngsters this Christmas because a large number of people who care did something about it.

MERCURY RISING

The Good Fellow thermometer rose 72.75 degrees to a red hot total of $1,928.86. That is $1,571.14 away from the $3,500 goal which is the minimum heat needed to warm up Christmas to the right temperature.

First of all Linda Briney and

Sue Holda made a $10 gift in "Loving memory of their mother, Mrs. Don Briney."

Then Johnny and Joanne Helsley rolled in with $2.25.

Tom McGrath, the busy executive manager of the Lakeshore Chamber of Commerce, promoted $10 for the Good Fellows.

The Golden Link lodge made Good Fellows comfortable with a $25 gift.

One of our gifts is enshrined. "Bow" (That's right, a $5 folded so it looks like a bow tie.) The Good Fellow book-keeper bought it on the spot and plans to preserve it under glass.

Tim Bookout is just 2½ years old so his gift comes to $2.50. His grandma brought the gift in person. (She said she was coming in anyway.)

"Chandler" gave $1. Gal once worked in St. Joe and is now on the west coast (but her heart is in old St. Joe).

Blossom and Cadets of Amvets post 88 marched in with $5 which is stepping right along.

Bridgman, where the Bridgman Lions are set to howl "Leaning Pine" dropped a big $2 cone.

Past Matrons of American chapter, No. 234, Order of Eastern Star, looked down and smiled and there was $5 in the Good Fellow fund.

Le Mire's of Stevensville rolled in with $5 which is good for the Good Fellows.

Temporary Rail Rescue Mission

With hearts turned to the Yule Log at home and mired in indeological conflicts represented by a mass of legislative proposals, Congress is having its unwilling attention forced upon a serious transportation and financial crisis.

Earlier this week the court appointed trustees of the Penn Central Transportation Company informed the House Commerce Committee and the Senate Transportation that the carrier needs an immediate $100 million working capital loan if its trains are to keep running beyond next January 31st.

The trustees cited the interim wage settlement set by Congress for the rail unions at the immediate cause of Penn Central's many troubles.

The House Committee responded at once by approving a $125 million loan. Its Senate counterpart, though dragging its feet, is expected to agree in principle with the crash deal.

The bill proposed by the trustees would have the federal government guarantee the emergency bonds to be sold on the open market, carrying an interest rate set by the Transportation Secretary. The rate would have to be compatible with other government guaranteed securities. A 15-year maturity is requested.

The bonds would become a

A Thought On Liberation

Fred Saidy, best known as the co-author of "Finian's Rainbow," has called attention to something that may give women's liberationists pause. In essence, he says to them: be advised that if you succeed in your crusade for equality with men this means you'll have to do your share of hitherto male household chores.

Come time to put up the storm windows, for example, liberated woman will have to pitch in alongside the man of the house. No longer will man, exclusively, be responsible for restoring the flow of stopped-up drains or doing something about the lamp that went pft! with blue sparks or caulking around the bathtub. Mama will be expected to help. To coin a generalization: with freedom comes responsibility.

Chance Of A Snap-Back

The younger generation may have never heard of them and older folk seldom think of them except during twinges of nostalgia, but suspenders apparently are still doing their part to hold up the world, or an important part of it.

This item of men's attire, popular at the turn of the century, has not completely gone the way of spats, the derby hat or the starched collar. As proof, a Massachusetts manufacturer now claims to be the world's largest manufacturer of galluses, turning out a quarter million pairs a year.

Much of this output goes to the sports world, where hockey players, fishermen and skiers find them a particularly useful part of the costume. With all those suspenders snapping around, there is still hope the mod generation will rediscover the one accessory guaranteed to banish that uptight feeling.

BORN TODAY
To those experts and fans who claim that George Herman (Babe) Ruth is the greatest of all baseball players, the followers — not necessarily the admirers — of Tyrus Raymond Cobb shout "Cobb's number one!" If he were alive, Cobb would be leading the cheering.

Few men in sports have been as widely disliked as Cobb, but all will agree that he had courage and an amazing baseball ability. He lacked Ruth's power and the grace of Tris Speaker, but he could beat an opponent a hundred ways. He played 24 years in the majors and had a lifetime batting average of .367 — twelve times he won the American League batting title and three times he hit more than 400.

He liked to shout to the pitcher that he was going to steal on the next pitch — and then do it. He averaged 37 stolen bases a season and swiped 96 in 1915.

He was the first man to swing extra bats before stepping to the plate and he wore weighted shoes in spring training to help increase his speed.

By 1907 Cobb hit .350 and from then until he quit in 1928, his average never fell below .323.

In 1918 he joined the army and worked his way up to the rank of captain in the Chemical Warfare Division. He returned in 1918 and hit .384 to win another title.

He served as playing manager for the Detroit Tigers from 1921 through the 1926 season, then resigned. He came back as a player for two years with the A's, then retired. He died of cancer.

Others born today include Willy Brandt, Abe Burrows and Betty Grable.

DR. COLEMAN ..And Speaking Of Your Health

Why are some medicines given by injection instead of by mouth?

Mr. T. U., Va.
Dear Mr. U.: Drugs given by injection almost always act more rapidly than those taken by mouth. In an emergency, such rapid action is most important.

Some drugs taken by mouth can be irritating to the lining of the stomach or can cause vomiting and thus become valueless.

Some drugs, Dr. Coleman especially the antibiotics, are given in an oily substance by injection in order to store up a quantity over a period of time.

How long after the change of life can a woman assume that she no longer can become pregnant?

Mrs. B. D., Okla.
Dear Mrs. D.: Pregnancy is hardly possible if the change of life, or menopause, has set in and no menstrual cycle has occurred in about a year — although pregnancies have been reported in women who apparently had reached menopause, but whose cycle had been irregular all their lives.

For greatest assurance, of course, your own doctor must be consulted because of the variations that might occasionally occur.

My heart skips a beat, especially when I'm nervous. Is this serious?

Mrs. Y. R., Tex.
Dear Mrs. R.: These "skip beats" are known medically as "extra systoles." They are caused by a slight irregularity of the heart beat, and give one the feeling that you describe.

They can occur in perfectly normal hearts and are rarely of any medical significance.

Excess tobacco, alcohol, emotional stress, and fatigue are common reasons for the extra beats of the heart.

To be sure that there are no underlying physical reasons, a general physical examination — including an electrocardiogram — would be reassuring.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH: Don't force brandy down the throats of someone who has fainted.

JAY BECKER Contract Bridge

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1♥	Dble	Pass	2♠
Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AK93 ♥84 ♦Q72 ♣AQ85
2. ♠KJ85 ♥7 ♦AQ96 ♣KQ74
3. ♠KJ6 ♥AK9 ♦KQJ82 ♣K4
4. ♠AK987 ♥8 ♦KJ8 ♣AQJ4

1. Pass. Once you've doubled for takeout you are under no obligation to bid again unless partner responds with a cuebid or a jump bid, or unless you have values well in excess of a minimum double. To bid again over two clubs after partner has responded in minimum terms — he may have a very poor hand — would announce more values than you have. There is practically no chance for a game opposite a two club response, and the clearest way of indicating this is by a pass.

2. Three clubs. Here also you have only 15 points, but the singleton heart elevates the over-all values of the hand just enough to justify a further bid. It is no longer impossible for partner to have the values necessary for a game. No thought should be given to mentioning your spades or diamonds. The proper way of showing support for clubs is by raising them.

3. Two notrump. Bearing in mind that partner's forced response may be based on a trickless hand, two notrump announces highly substantial values. The temptation to jump impetuously to three notrump must be firmly resisted, since such a leap into the unknown would indicate a tendency to bid in solo rather than in partnership style.

Two notrump identifies the high-card strength of the hand, as well as the balanced distribution, and it is thus a more informative bid than two diamonds, which is perhaps the only reasonable alternative.

4. Four clubs. There are lots of messages you'd like to deliver at this point, but since the laws permit only one bid at a time you must make the call best suited to the occasion.

Most worthy of consideration are two spades, three spades and four clubs. The last bid has the great merit of identifying a very powerful hand, and at the same time allows partner to get out from under if by any chance he has been dealt some horrible conglomeration of deuces and treys.

Two spades would understate your values, while three spades (forcing) would exaggerate them and could result in your being catapulted into an utterly hopeless contract.

Mitchell Resigns Model Cities Post

Bypassed For Paid Job

Warren P. Mitchell, chairman of the Citizens Steering Council of the Benton Harbor - Benton township Model Cities program, resigned Thursday night after being bypassed for the new program position of project coordinator for citizen participation.

Mrs. Esther Kizer, the council's first vice-chairman, was elected acting chairman until a replacement for Mitchell can be found.

Mitchell told the council: "When a person labors with you and proves himself, you should open the door of HUD (federal Housing and Urban Development department) from an unpaid to a paid position. To continue as chairman would be insulting my own intelligence."

Mitchell said that after working for one year and a half in the unpaid chairman's job the new paid position should have been offered to him according to HUD guideline No. 11 which specifies job mobility through seniority.

"It is an insult to ask me to continue the status quo," Mitchell said. "This tells me that I am eligible to bring in money for the model cities program but not spend it."

The council also received a report from Benjamin Davis, Model Cities director, that the program may be able to draw funds next week on the HUD grant of $1,340,000. The grant was approved last June but technical problems have delayed release of funds.

The current delay is due to the defeat of Ray A. Wilder for Benton township supervisor and the election of new members to the Benton township board of trustees. "A number of adjustments became necessary after the November elections," said Davis.

The new township supervisor, Martin Lane, and the new members of the township board required orientation to the HUD grant and guidelines. But Model Cities holds a letter of credit and should be notified next week by the U.S. Treasury department about a release date, related Davis.

PURPOSE
The grant is to be used to improve the economic and social conditions and the physical environment of a 1,236 acre area of Benton Harbor's east side and an adjacent sector of Benton township.

The Citizens Steering Council also endorsed a proposal to obtain planning funds as the possible forerunner of a $5.5 million rehabilitation project in the Benton Harbor Model Cities neighborhood.

The rehabilitation would be part of the Model Cities concept but operated by city departments, Davis said. "At this time we are only talking ideas. This is a tentative proposal." Leslie Cripps, Benton Harbor director of urban development, made the presentation for obtaining planning funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The money would be used to draft housing rehabilitation projects amounting to $5.5 million over the next five years. There would be three separate projects in the total package, Cripps said — the Hall Park code enforcement project already underway, the Edwards Park code project and the Morton rehabilitation project.

Stevensville Clerk Won't Run Again

Fred Albrecht Jr., Stevensville village clerk, announced last night he would not seek reelection in the village election in March.

Albrecht's announcement was made during a regular meeting of the village council.

In a statement presented to Conrad Stampohar, village president, Albrecht said, "For the past 14 years I have had the privilege of serving on the village council both as trustee and village clerk. After long consideration and much thought, I must inform you that I will not be a candidate for office of village clerk. This statement is being made so there will be adequate time allowed for prospective candidates to file nominating petitions due before Dec. 28 at 4 p.m."

SEEK REPLACEMENT
The council also discussed a replacement for former trustee Charles Ott, Jr. who resigned at the last meeting due to ill health. No action was taken on naming someone to fill the term.

In other business the council adopted a ban on auto parking on village streets from 2 to 6 a.m. during the winter so streets can be plowed of snow. The ban takes effect immediately.

Moved to buy an undergrader for the village owned 1961 Ford truck instead of purchasing a new truck. The council instructed B. W. Yaslick, water and street superintendent, to seek bids on the undergrader.

Hired Haskell Starbuck as a part-time police officer to replace Thomas Yops who no longer has time available for village work. Haskell is a Lincoln township constable.

Announced that they would hold an informal recognition dinner for Ott on Dec. 30 at Ritter's restaurant.

STEEPLE WITHOUT A CHURCH: In two days of demolition work, the 101-year-old First Methodist church in St. Joseph was reduced to its towering steeple and a small adjacent segment Thursday. Workmen were to pull the steeple down today. Wrecker George Miller said a cable would be attached to the spire and it would be pulled over into the center of the site. Edifice was former home of oldest organized church congregation in St. Joseph. It was vacated early this year when congregation moved to a new church building. (Staff photo)

The regional Office of Economic Opportunity has announced a tentative decision not to refund Tri-County Community Action Program after Jan. 31, 1971, charging that Tri-CAP's operations are generally ineffective. Nearly $600,000 was granted Tri-CAP in 1970 for the administration of the war on poverty in Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

Top 4 Per Cent

Area Students Place High In Competition

Twelve Twin City area high school students have placed among the top 4 per cent in the 14th Annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition and are awaiting word on how they fared on the second part of the test, as announced by Donald Buyze, president of the Twin Cities Area Mathematics Teachers.

The 12 students were among 863 who qualified out of 20,112 who took the original test Oct. 21. Final rankings are expected to be announced next month. The names of the qualifying students are sent to Michigan colleges and universities for scholarship considerations. Local mathematics teachers feel the greatest value of the test is the interest in mathematics that it generates.

Three girls are among the 12 students honored, one from each of three high schools. The students, who passed the first test and qualified for the second section, are:

From Lakeshore high school: Alan Smikle, Pam Lovell.
From Benton Harbor high school: Patty Miller, Mark Hennes, Ricky Sanders.

ABOVE AVERAGE
Buyze, a veteran algebra teacher at Benton Harbor, said of the 78 from his school who competed, more than half of them ranked higher than the average. Ricky Sanders, a senior, ranked in the 99.78 percentile by working correctly 25 of the 40 problems with only 27 of the 20,112 scoring higher than he. He was one of 18 to obtain that score. Mark Hennes, a sophomore at Benton Harbor High school, ranked 98.70 percentile in the overall group by solving 21 problems correctly. Only five of the 2,628 sophomores taking the test, scored higher than he.

Thumbnail biographical sketches of the qualifying students:

Patty Miller, daughter of Lewis Miller of 468 Western, Benton Harbor and Mrs. J. A. Tucker of Newago, is a senior at Benton Harbor High school. Four nights a week and weekends, she works in a store; on another night, she tutors a sixth grader in the Community Education program. She likes sports, particularly skiing and enjoys writing poetry. She plans to attend Michigan State University to pursue some field of science.

Mark Hennes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Hennes, 284 Hoover, Benton Harbor, is a sophomore at Benton Harbor high school. He is a member of Future Teachers Club, the Chess Club, and the Symphony band, treasurer of the Temple Beth El Youth Group, and is a member of the B'nai B'rith Bomber basketball team.

Ricky Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sanders, Route 4, Box 69, Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, is a senior at Benton Harbor High school. He is a member of the National Honor Society and has been selected to be a guest at Rotary Club luncheons. He plans to enter a technical school.

Dennis Bruce, of the Lakeshore Math department, said that all of the 13 juniors taking the test scored on the 50th percentile or better.

PSYCHOLOGY MAJOR
Pam Lovell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Lovell of 5841 Ridge Road, Stevensville, is a senior at Lakeshore High school. She is a member of Spanish club, National Honor Society, Annual Staff, and Student Council. She plans to attend Michigan State university upon graduation and plans to major in psychology.

Attendance Picking Up At BHHS

Benton Harbor high school was operating without disruption this morning, the final day of classes before Christmas vacation.

Principal David Hartenbach said attendance was 74 per cent yesterday and appeared higher this morning. Attendance of 90 per cent is considered normal.

The admission policy adopted this week for students who have been absent will continue when classes resume, Jan. 4, Hartenbach said.

Students will enter the building through the Empire avenue or library doors and present ID cards. Those who were absent this week must bring a parent with them for readmission. Only students on the morning shift must be accompanied by a parent.

Hartenbach said eight students have been suspended since December 10 for fighting. Some of the suspensions were indefinite pending a report to the superintendent and board of education recommending expulsion or readmission.

Classes resumed Wednesday after the school was closed Monday and Tuesday because of racial tension.

Some School Gyms Will Remain Open

Three community schools in the Benton Harbor district will be open for community education next week while other schools are closed for Christmas vacation.

Samuel Mullice, director of community education, announced that Lafayette and Morton will open their gyms from 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. Seely McCord also will open the three days, 1-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. All schools will be closed the week of Dec. 28 for cleaning.

WATERVLIET SCHOLARSHIP: Sandra Jones, 27, of rural Hartford, has won a $500 nursing scholarship from Watervliet Community hospital. Howard Parker, hospital administrator, presents check for scholarship above. Miss Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, Center street, Hartford, will get her nursing degree at Lake Michigan college. She started about 11 years ago at the hospital as a housekeeping aide and moved up to nursing assistant, licensed practical nurse and now with the aid of the scholarship, will become a professional nurse. BH School Chief Speaks

Community Climate Blamed For Trouble

Occasional trouble will crop up at Benton Harbor high school as long as certain conditions continue in the community as a whole, says Superintendent Mark Lewis.

Lewis identified some of these conditions as outside agitators, tolerance of violence and prejudice.

His remarks were made Thursday at the monthly meeting of the Human Resource Council, held at offices of the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. In subsequent business, the council went on record in support of the Tri-County Community Action Program (Tri-CAP), threatened with withdrawal of federal funds.

BLAMES OUTSIDERS
Speaking of the recent troubled days at the high school, Lewis said, "Others in the community are trying to stir up the students." He did not elaborate. "Until black people speak out publicly against violence, we're going to have these problems."

The same applies to whites, he said. They must rid themselves of their prejudices.

Asked for the "true story" of recent turmoil, he replied, "Everyone is looking for a simple answer and there is none. The situation (at the high school) is just as complex as the community from which the students come."

Lewis criticized the "revolutionary tactics" of students who presented the board of education with a list of demands. "It may be effective techniques," he said, "but it doesn't resolve routine problems." He did not criticize the demands themselves.

On Monday black students petitioned on seven issues, regarding hiring of teachers, curriculum, and censure of a teacher for a remark. On Wednesday, white students submitted a petition for increased safety at the school.

PRINCIPAL PRAISED

"One group cannot take matters in its own hands. When that happens, the other side believes it must band together," he said. He praised Principal David Hartenbach and the school's teachers for a "tremendous job."

Speaking of community opinion, Lewis said, "I realize how difficult it is for both black and white parents to support all of our decisions. They simply don't know all the considerations."

He was responding to a comment from Mrs. Alice Kurth of the Community Information and Referral Service. Mrs. Kurth said, "As a parent, I think we should stand behind our administration." She praised the Tuesday night meeting for parents and school officials at the high school gymnasium as a "beginning in bridging the communications gap."

SJ Students Get Surprise Yule Party

The seniors at St. Joseph high school were surprised Thursday noon with a Christmas party during their lunch period at Roxy Drive-In, 2623 Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph.

Jerry Owens, manager, said he wanted to show the students his appreciation for the way they have conducted themselves during their lunch period and he feels this is one of the best senior classes at the school.

In addition to free soft drinks and bowls of candy, Owens had arranged for a large "reserved" table for the students.

U.S. WILL PAY

Lakeshore Hearing Due On Interchange

A public hearing on construction of a full interchange at 194 and Red Arrow highway, Lincoln township, will be scheduled in the near future, according to State Sen. Charles O. Zollar.

Zollar said the State Highway department has received word from the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads that federal funding will be available for 90 per cent of the cost with the state providing 10 per cent.

Two ramps will be constructed to permit complete access for eastbound and westbound traffic. Congressman Edward Hutchinson announced last month that a federal commitment had been made for the project based on the 90-10 formula.

Why America Should Make Raffles Legal

Law Being Overlooked By Policemen?

By STEVE McQUOWN
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW—What is more American than a raffle? Indeed, raffles, lotteries and other less alarming forms of gaming have become a popular way to raise money. They have flourished in the county from time to time, sponsored much of the time by churches, military veterans' groups, little league, snowmobile clubs and centennial organizations.

But, unfortunately, many forms of raffles are illegal, according to Van Buren Prosecutor William Buhl.

To challenge their legality, however, would hardly qualify one for a community service award, law enforcement officials have said privately.

In Paw Paw in the last week, two separate raffles which have all the appearances of being illegal have been blessed by the myopia of law enforcement, and in one case, has enjoyed the participation by law-enforcement officers.

"If I receive a complaint from a citizen, I will investigate," commented Buhl recently.

He conceded that there are few persons anxious to hear about the money-raising devices of fraternal, religious and civic groups.

Buhl's advice about what he describes as an "outdated" law prohibiting raffles of is: "Change the law."

If raffles were permitted by law, there would be virtually no limit to the potential benefits.

—Business and industry could eliminate absenteeism by offering daily prizes and cash jackpots to workers who purchase the tickets as they check in.

—Local government and school boards could insure greater citizen involvement at meetings through the same method.

—Church officials would see a full house each Sunday if just after the benediction some lucky ticket-buyer could win 50 bucks.

—Persons incarcerated at local jails could buy tickets at the jail and some—except those arrested for gambling—would win enough for bail bond or to pay for an attorney.

—Those who have been on welfare for more than six months could buy a ticket at the welfare office and take a chance on winning a cash prize that could launch them on the way to financial independence.

—Schools could wipe out the problem of student dropouts by raffling off a used-car once a month on a schedule not announced in advance.

—The Federal government could sell raffle tickets and a certain number in each state would get a refund of all Federal taxes paid in the preceding year. Price of the raffle ticket would also be tax-deductible.

So. Haven To Increase Foot Patrol

Merchants Urge More Protection

TOM RENNER

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — City officials have promised to beef-up police foot patrols in the central business district in the wake of reports of increased shoplifting and complaints of loitering youths.

A group of merchants met with City Manager Albert Pierce and Police Chief Otto Buelow Thursday seeking added protection for the last week before Christmas.

Merchants complained that loitering youths have discouraged shoppers, especially women, from patronizing their stores.

"They (the loiterers) are harassing both the merchants and the public by their actions," complained businessman Roberts Arkins.

The merchants estimated that as much as $100,000 in merchandise will be taken from their stores by shoplifters this year.

"We feel that the presence of foot patrolmen will discourage the potential thief," said Steve Yardie, variety store manager. Pierce said that at least two policemen would be assigned to foot patrols in the central business district beginning today and continuing through the holiday season.

YEAR AROUND

He also pledged to investigate the possibility of having an officer assigned to the downtown area year around.

The merchants agreed to create a plan in which businessmen can alert one another when known shoplifters are in the area.

The Chamber of Commerce plans to develop a telephone alert system in which word can be quickly spread from one store to another.

"It's not hard to recognize the known shoplifter when he's in your store and if we can let everyone know when he is around he'll go elsewhere," said merchant Alvin Novak.

Buelow said juveniles are a prime shoplifting problem and that prosecution was a slow and often frustrating procedure.

The merchants suggested that the city council investigate the possibility of developing an ordinance in which parents who be held directly responsible for the actions of their children.

Four Charged In Break-In At School

COVERT — Four juveniles have been charged with the Nov. 29 breaking and entering of the Covert high school.

State police Thursday charged the youths who are ages 16, 15, and 12.

They are charged with stealing a quantity of tapes, a projector and other audio-visual materials from the high school. The youths will be petitioned to the Van Buren county probate court.

COLOMA

Another Policeman Reports Glow In Sky

COLOMA — A "strange glow" in the sky early Tuesday morning was also seen by Coloma city policeman Wayne Krietner.

According to Krietner he and employees of Harding's Market in Coloma observed the sight in the east, he said. "The sun was coming up in the east and apparently was shining through an oval patch of fog resulting in the bright red glow which stood out from the blue sky background."

Earlier this week a Benton Harbor police officer, Lt. Harold Harris and Oliver Harmon, an electronics engineer at St. Joseph's Health Co., also commented on viewing the "strange glow" early Tuesday.

Both men said the glow was red, like the tail of a rocket.

Two Townships Lose Tax Fight

Should Have Taken Case To Different Court

Lincoln and New Buffalo townships Thursday lost out in a bid to have a Berrien circuit judge review what the township claimed were their too-high shares of Berrien's $705 million 1970 tax valuations.

Housing Project Wins Approval

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — An initial allocation of $209,000 has been approved by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development HUD for a $2.3 million housing project in Clinton Township, north of here. A 180-unit family project is being constructed under a federal surplus land program. It is the first stage of an 856-unit housing project for low and middle income families in the area.

million, and upped New Buffalo $4.5 million to $18.7 million. Countywide, the $705 million represented a $106 million or 18 per cent increase over 1969.

The new county valuation was adopted by the Berrien county board of commissioners on April 30 and the state tax commission denial of the township appeals followed. Judge Hughes' ruling Thursday granted a motion by the attorney general's office for accelerated judgment dismissing the two township suits.

Buchanan Bids Soar Over Estimates

BUCHANAN — The city commission delayed awarding a construction contract for its proposed sewage treatment system expansion Thursday when bids proved to be about 30 per cent over cost estimates.

The lowest bid was $1,265,952, submitted by Sollitt Construction company, South Bend. It was about $271,000 over the estimates. The bids were opened Thursday.

Engineers of the Clyde E. Williams firm, South Bend, had figured that the system could be built for about $995,000. Mayor Joseph Bachman said the city will attempt to negotiate price revisions in several areas of the contract which the engineers feel are out of line.

Failing this, City Manager Robert Faulhaber said, the city would revise the construction plans, or increase a financing bond issue.

The city is to open bids for general obligation bonds totaling $475,000 at a special meeting at 4 p.m. Tuesday. The state has already allocated $423,000 to help pay for the work.

The state water resources commission has told Buchanan to award construction contracts by Dec. 30.

City Clerk Raymond Suabedissen said a price revision by contractors appears to be the only way to meet the deadline. Altering either the basic sewer construction plans or the bond issue would probably consume more time than remains before the deadline, he said.

Four companies submitted construction bids: Sollitt, which was lowest; Clark Construction; Lansing; DeWulf Mechanical Contractors; Mishawaka; and Glen and Whitacker company, Kalamazoo.

The highest bid was $1,431,000.

Car Output Heads For New Record

DETROIT (AP) —Auto production is headed towards record highs, primarily because of General Motors' return from a 10-week strike, industry statisticians say.

Ward's Automotive Reports predicted production of new cars in the first quarter of 1971 will be a record 2,590,000.

The trade paper Automotive News says this week's production will be the fifth highest of the year with many GM plants working overtime.

BETTER TIMES
Optimistic predictions of booming car sales and production for the new year are based in part on catchup from the lengthy GM strike this fall and partly on an expected improvement in the country's economy, auto executives say.

In year-end reports, the executives have predicted 1971 sales would reach a record 10 million cars. This would be a strong rebound from the disappointing 1970 total of 8.4 million cars and would drop the high of 9.6 million set in 1968. Sales in 1969 totaled slightly over 9.5 million.

The industry intends to assemble 2,590,000 cars in the January-March period, the highest production for any first quarter in history, according to Ward's. The industry's statistical agency said the proposed production is 45 per cent above the 1,780,000 cars produced in the same period of this year and will break the previous record for the period of 2,560,000 cars in 1965, the industry's peak year for assembly in U.S. plants.

Ward's said GM, shut down by the 10-week United Auto Workers strike, has projected a January-March output of 1,640,000 cars, substantially exceeding its record for any three months.

Ford expects first quarter production to be up 15 per cent from 1970 when 460,000 cars were built, indicating an output of some 520,000 to 525,000 cars, Ward's said.

Chrysler production may be up to 345,000, compared to the 263,000 cars it built this year during the same period.

American Motors Corp. expects its auto production to reach 85,000, up from 75,000.

Automakers expect to build some 183,013 cars this week, compared to 156,186 last week and 179,271 last year, according to Automotive News.

OVERTIME SURGES
A much-anticipated surge of overtime in GM plants accounted for a good part of the production jump, the industry's newspaper pointed out, adding that Ford had three plants working an extra day.

However, the crippling strike from which GM is just now recovering will knock a large dent in auto production for the calendar year. Already, from Jan. 1 through Saturday, automakers expect to have turned out 1,753,939 fewer cars this year than during the same period in 1969, with 6,400,832 this year compared to 8,154,771 last year.

Canadian auto output this week was scheduled at 18,366 cars against 14,978 last week and 25,387 last year, according to Automotive News.

Four Men Bound Over On Felonies

Four persons were bound over to circuit court on felony charges Wednesday and Thursday in Berrien Fifth District court.

Stephen Eggleston, 23, of 875 Skyline drive, Mike McLaughlin, 1444 Howard, and Thomas M. Williams, 24, of 920 North Fourth street, all in Niles, were bound over on charges of selling marijuana and conspiracy to sell marijuana. The three were arrested during a November drug raid on the Oasis Leather shop, 217 North Front street, Niles.

Tommy C. Gorman, 22, of 855 Edgecumb, Benton Harbor, on a charge of uttering and publishing a forged check of $85 in Lincoln township.

In other cases, a charge of perjury against Michael Wayne Strunk, 18, of 2320 Butler, Benton township, was dismissed on motion of the prosecutor. There was insufficient evidence to prove wilful intent to perjure, according to Quentin Fulcher, chief assistant prosecutor.

Robert Earl Minies, 25, of South Bend, Ind., demanded preliminary examination on a charge of possession of a stolen credit card. Bond was set at $500.

Carl Penley, 29, of Route 1, Party road, Sawyer, was assessed $53 for assault and battery.

James E. Jackson, 29, of 182 Apple street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to serve 43 days in jail for driving on a suspended license, to run concurrently with his sentence for six traffic convictions last August. He was also assessed $93 and sentenced to 3 days for driving without an operator's license and $3 for careless driving last October.

Robert Lee Jones, 44, of 1724 Plympton, was assessed $21 for reckless driving.

Niles Pair's Bonds Set At $2,000

DOWAGIAC—Two Niles teenagers, charged with armed robbery of a Dowagiac service station early Thursday morning, are in Cass county jail under $2,000 bond each while the court appoints counsel for them.

They were identified by Dowagiac police as Cephus Phillips, 18, and Burdell McCall, 18, both of Niles.

They were arraigned on the robbery charge Thursday afternoon before Judge Steg Lignell. Both asked that the court appoint an attorney for them.

Their arraignments were postponed to 9:30 a.m. Dec. 24.

The two, plus a third youth who claims to be a 16-year-old minor, were apprehended shortly after police received a report of a holdup at the Clark service station, here.

Attendant Frank Stanek said he had been robbed of $122 in cash, his coin changer, and two cartons of cigarettes.

Police said they found coins and a coin changer when they apprehended the three.

The arrests were made by Police Sgt. Phillip Schoulton and Patrolman Steven Proshwitz.

The robbery was one of two in the area reported Thursday. A station on Spruce street at Hastings avenue was held-up late Wednesday at $138 taken. No arrests have been made in this case, police said.

REPORTED EXPECTING: Svetlana Stalin Peters, daughter of the late Soviet premier, is reportedly expecting a baby, according to Washington Post columnist Maxine Cheshire. She is pictured at her wedding reception in Tucson, Ariz., earlier this year with her husband, architect William Wesley Peters. Mrs. Peters, now 44, has two grown children. (AP Wirephoto)
